

Journal of Applied Security Research

Journal of Applied Security Research: An International Journal of Police - Security Operations & Practices aims to assist scholars, educators, practitioners, and students to better understand and meet the increasing need for security in the United States.

JASR seeks to publish high quality original articles focusing on current developments in the theory and practice of security research, to advance discussion of these issues and their application in criminal justice settings. The journal particularly welcomes articles with an emphasis on the latest methods,

Visit the JASR website at www.tandfonline.com/wasr to:

- Find out how to submit a paper
- View the full Editorial Board
- Register for table-of-contents alerts
- Discover the latest content

Journal of Applied Security Research

Call for Proposals

JASR calls for proposals for the following two newly launched programs.

(1) Practitioner's Corner:

JASR provides a space that researchers, scholars, and practitioners can share their views and insights on contemporary issues in the field of security and crime prevention by interviewing experts and practitioners in the fields. This interview will be published one per issue, under the name, "Practitioner's Corner", in the journal. Any interested persons submit a proposal with the following information:

- Topic or Title
- Interviewer's affiliation and contact information
- Interviewee's affiliation and a brief bio
- A brief description of the interview topic and content
- Estimated completion date of the interview paper

(2) Special Issue:

JASR plans to publish a special issue per year. Any interested persons should submit a proposal with the following information:

- Title
- Guest editor(s)' information
- A brief description of the special issue
- List of themes or potential topics to be considered

Any inquires, questions, and submissions should be addressed to Hyeyoung Lim, Associate Editor, hyeyoung@uab.edu.